World and the Woodmen Circle. The morning observance included a sermon by Rev. W. C. Webdell, of the Trinity Methodist church, which was attended by the two orders who had pews reserved for them at the Mesa avenue church. In the afternoon the Woodmen visited the cemeteries and decorated the graves of the members of that order who are buried in El Paso.

Rev. Mr. Webdell selected as his text Jno. 13:15, "I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have The entire discourse was along the lines of fraternalism and social service emphasizing the altruistic spirit as exemplified by the life of Christ.

He Said in part: "I assure you it is a privilege to have the opportunity a privilege to have the opportunity to bring to you this message from the Master Craftsman, who was a carpenter, the son of a carpenter and who, more than any other man who has ever lived, exemplified the spirit of fraturnalism and brotherheod. The Bible contains more surprises than contradictions, for the reader discovers things therein that he least expects. The student of the Bible is impressed with the fact that it is written contrary to summar standards and is at variance with the world's conceptions. It stamps as false many a pet theory and shatters the mountain peaks or haman wisdom. tismul service.

"Men look upon might and power as the royal road to greatness and distinction, but the word of God hoints out the pathway to true greatness as that of service to our fellowinen, and this same truth was set forth by the life and example of Jesus, who went about doing good, making the himd to see, the lame to walk, the deaf to hear and the deaf to live. If I understand the purpose of the Woodmen of the World, of the great teacher sent from God, whose visible body you cannot see, but whose heart-throbs of sympathy for His suffering children you feel today. Jesus declared: He that would be greatest among you, Jet him be as he that servein."

of service to our fellowinch, and this same truth was set forth by the life and strample of Jessis, who went about doing good, making the thind to see, the lame to walk, the deaf to been and the dead to live. If I understand the purpose of the Woodmen of the World, of the great teacher sent from God, whose viable body you cannot see, but whose heart-throbs of sympathy for His suffering children you feel today. Jessis declared. He that would be greatest among you, let him be as he that serveth. 'By washing the disciples' feet Jesus gives, a symbolical representation of the service we are to render one to another. The spirit of altruism characterized the entire life of Christ. Every act of His life, every miracle performed reveals his interest, sympathy and love for his fellowmen. He taught men by His example to observance of the golden rule is the only way men can prevent the rule of Sold.' The example of Jesus has a twofold aspect—first, in the purity of His life among men, which stands out as one of the great, simpendous fants of simma history; second, in its service, which reaches down to human need and up to divine attainment. The athelat, the skeptic, the infidel may tent the rown of divine attainment. The athelat, the skeptic, the infidel may tent the rown of divine sonship from the brown of Jesus, but they will not permit an assault upon the purity and beauty of file moral character. Mark 1:40-45.

And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeling down to him, and saying unto him, if thou will thou caust make me clean.

And Jesus, moved with compassion, put forth his hand, and touched him, and saith unto him, I will; be thou clean. In honor of Right Rev. Joseph Patrick Lynch, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Dallas, which embraces El Paso, a reception was given Sunday night by the Knights of Columbus in their hall on Myrtle avenue. While this is the first visit of the bishop in his episcopal capacity, he having been church and another class at the same church and another class at the same church Monday night at 7:36 oclock. clean.

And as soon as he had spoken, immediately the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleanned.

And he straitly charged him, and forthwith sent him away.

And saith unto him, See thou my nothing to any man; but go thy way, shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing those things which Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them. consecrated to that office only last July, he was at one time state chaplain of the Knights of Columbus and has endeared himself to the members of that order. He had been in El Paso several times on various missions and was known to many. Bishop Lynch, wearing the purple cassock and other insignia of his order, received his friends under a canopy built at one end of the hall, draped with the Krights of Columbus colors, yellow and white. A large silver cross surmounted the whole. The platform beneath it was arranged with a number of palms and potted plants.

From the chandeller in the center of the hall tong ropes of salt cedar extended to the corners of the hall across the celling. The distinguished guest was introduced by Rev. Francis C. Roy, of the Church of the immaculate Conception, in an appropriately worded consecrated to that office only last unto them.

Bishop Lynch responded in a very happy vein. He commented on the vast improvements in El Paso since his last visit, when there were no payed streets nor fine buildings. He said that the religious growth had been correspondingly good from the spinndid congregations that had assembled at the services he had conducted Sunday, and in closing, said that he hoped the love and loyalty that had been given the late bishop Dunne, his predecessor, might be his also.

They Carlon Pinto, Rev. F. C. Roy, Rev. C. M. Allard, the bishop's secretary, and Rev. L. M. Kranz were in the receiving line with the hishop, and the receiving line with the bishop and the people as they crowded up to meet the bishop and kins the episcopal amethyst ring.
